How could anyone look so happy at the beginning of school? But this is the spirit at Riverheads as these smiling students enter the school lobby to start another day . . . Of course, they may be smiling for the photographer.

Every student is a part of life and ideas of Riverheads.

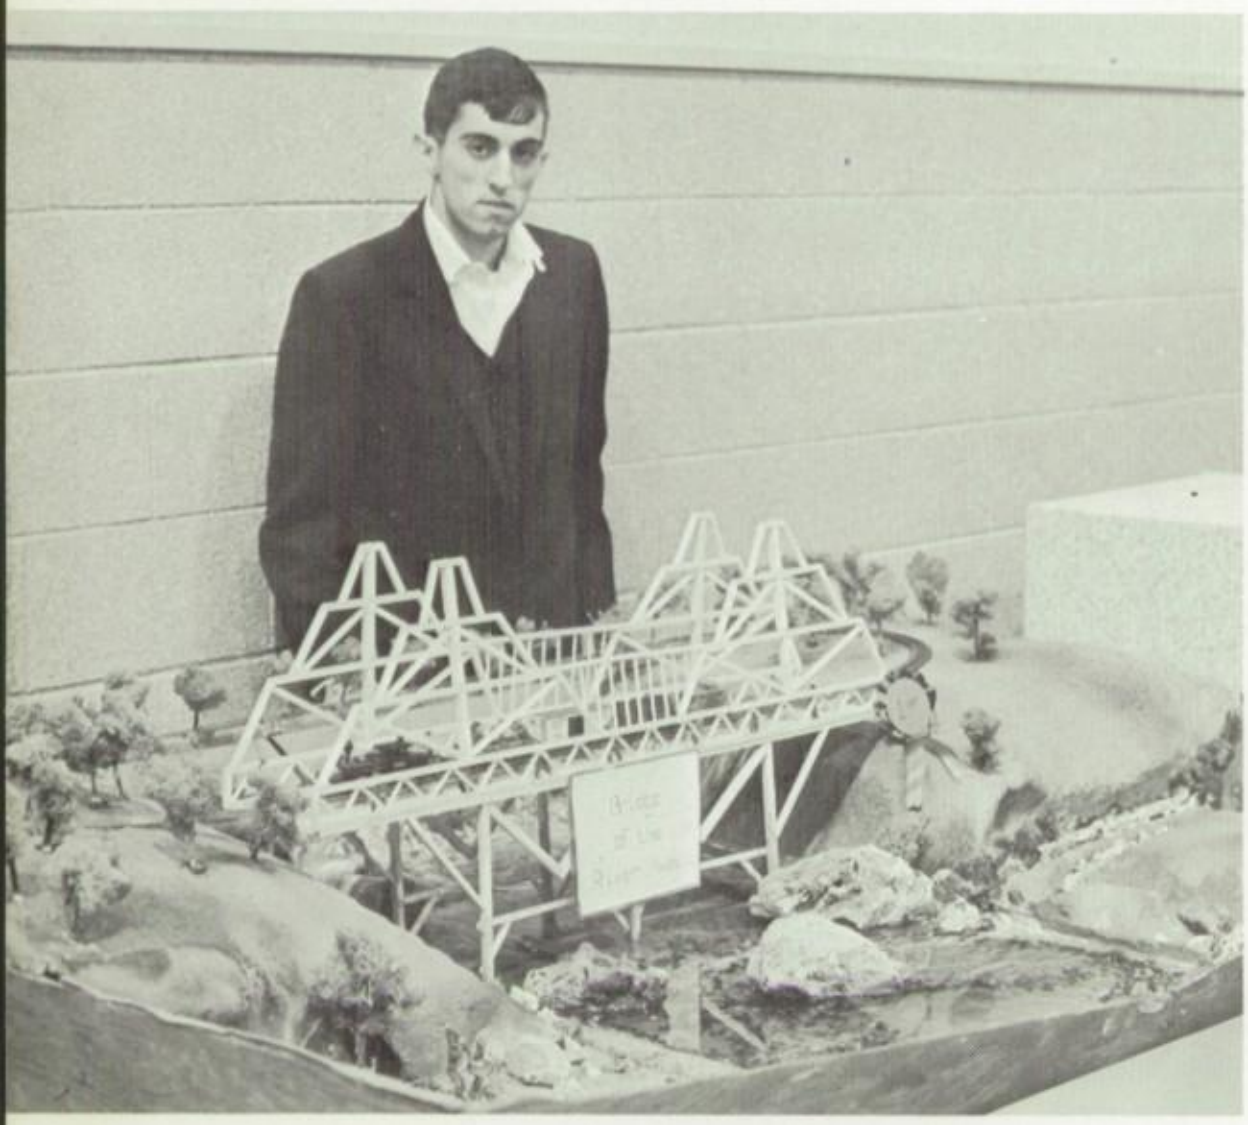
Mr. Wilkerson performs his duties of checking driving excuses before school. It appears here that he may be a little suspicious.

No, it's not a lineup. It's a little place known as senior corner where Gary Shuey, Dale Truxell, Roger Swisher, and Frank Doyle congregate each morning.

With the tools of his trade loaded in his arms, a Riverheads student symbolizes his efforts to attain a higher goal, by climbing the steps of education.

We Remember Past Experiences

Highlighting the memorable events of last spring, the junior-senior prom was held, to the delight of upperclassmen, using the theme "In the Misty Moonlight." Entertainment was provided by the "soul music" of the "Big Beats." Other events held were the Science and History Fair with the top science awards going to Debbie Humphries and G. G. Bartley, along with the top honor to a history project awarded to Fred Larijani.



Senior student Fred Larijani proudly displays his top prize-winning history project at the 1967 Science and History Fair.

Linda Lou Bradley happily accepts the office of president of the Riverheads Chapter of the FHA, from past president Joyce Humphries.

Chosen as "King and Queen" of the junior-senior prom, Sandra Fitzgerald and Donnie Harlow stand before the decorative fountain shortly following the coronation.

Last spring's awards assembly attributed many honors to last year's senior students, including Gerald Gordon who received the citizenship award for contributing in the best way to the welfare of Riverheads.

The Gladiator band held the distinction of sponsoring the District 5 Band Festival last spring, which included over twenty schools who send all-district representatives to participate in the District 5 Band Concert.

Mr. Layman presents the student award for contributing most to the betterment of Riverheads to humble senior Gerald Gordon.

Linda Patterson, Bill Bowman, and Phyllis Howard help register visiting students to the 1967 District 5 Band Festival held at Riverheads.

Becky Reames and Mary Lawrence work on something that all ninth-grade geography students come up against, a map for Mr. Downey.

It appears as if something got on the seat as Lee Ratliff exclaims his disgust while other band members get a laugh from Lee's antics.

Terry Miller and Karleen Cash act as if they were caught in the act of a foul deed, but are simply putting up a dance poster with some help from Diane Reames and Elaine Fitzgerald.

It just looks as if everybody is ready to gang up on a little field hockey ball right in the middle of a . . . football field? Would you believe girls field hockey at R.H.S.?

Lou Lawrence, Diane Reames, and Debbie Humphries work studiously on one of Mrs. Colonna's English assignments.

Life at Riverheads is hard to get away from.

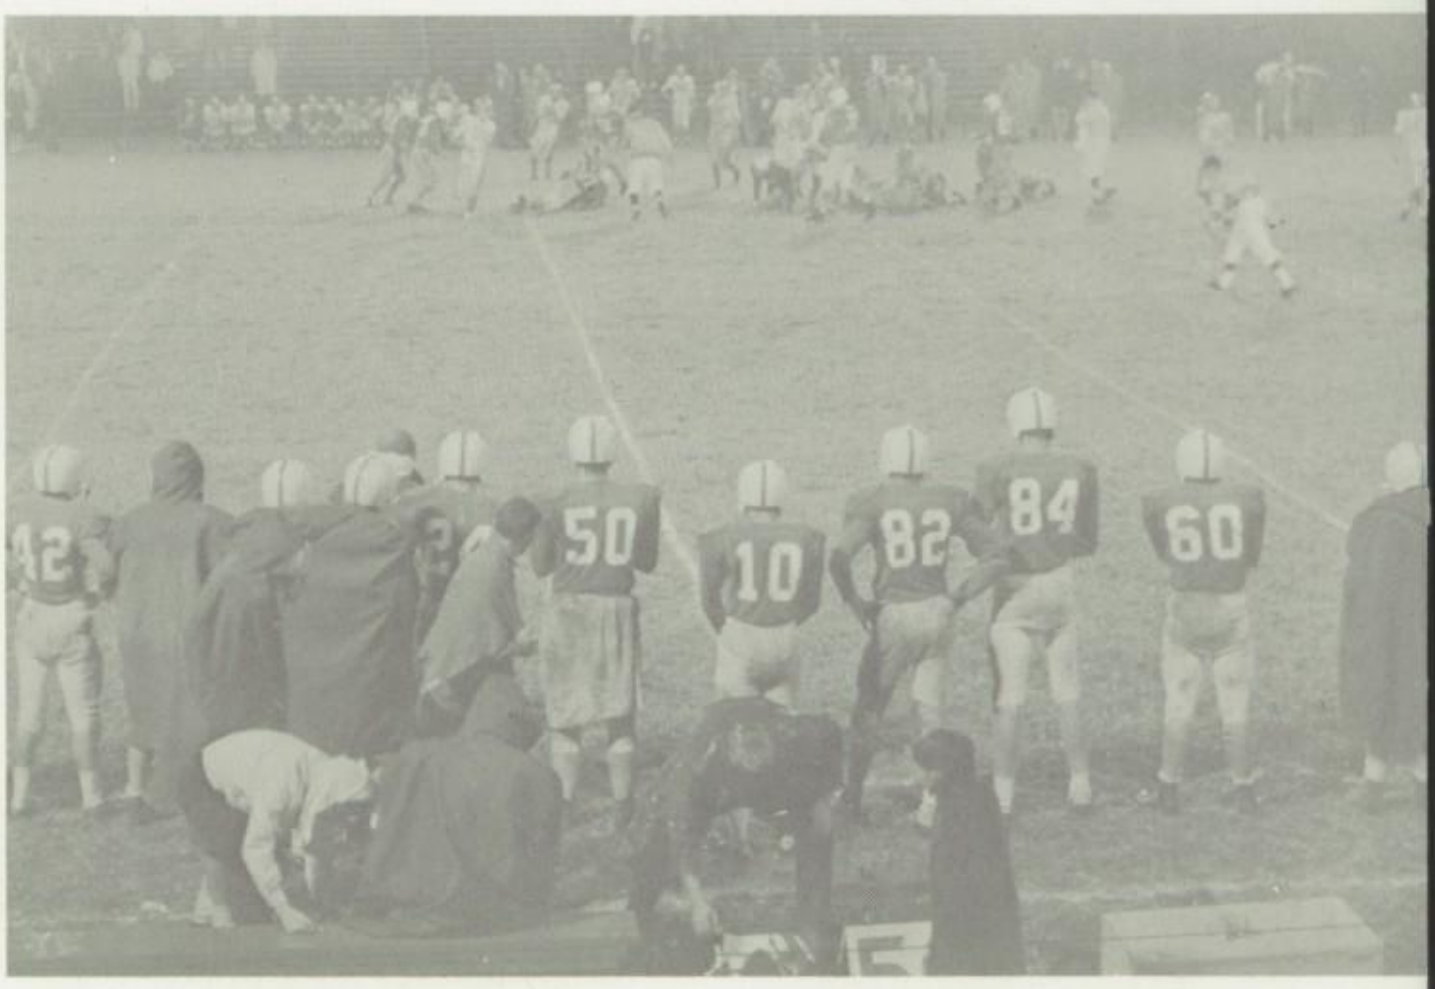
Pretty faces, burly football players and beautiful weather make up an exceptional homecoming evening as Queen Patti Ballew is surrounded by her court.

Homecoming, a part of life revisited.

It's wet, muddy, cold, and raw . . ., but otherwise it's a pretty good night for a football game!!



"Didn't you see that?" appears to be the question from Bill Eby's inquisitive expression as he portrays Count Mountjoy in "The Mouse That Roared."

Dramatic entertainment was a key part of academic activities during the course of the year with the presentation last spring of "The Mouse That Roared" by Leonard Wibberly and last fall's production of "The Red House Mystery" by A. A. Milne. Both plays, under the directions of Mrs. Mary Shomo and Mrs. Dorothea Koogler, are productions of the graduating class of 1968.

Talented students provide good entertainment for the community.

The ghost of Lady Ann points an accusing finger at wealthy tycoon Mark Ablett as Debbie Childress, Gary Landes, Houston Hutchens and Carolyn Fitzgerald act out a scene of A. A. Milne's "The Red House Mystery."

Teaming together to prepare some sweet cinnamon and sugar pastries, Mrs. Betty Jo Glenn, Mrs. Hallie Redifer, Mrs. Margaret Harmon, Mrs. Nola Fauber, and Mrs. Violet Swortzel seem to enjoy their work.

Lunch time is enjoyed by all;

"Come on now, this is a little embarrassing," as Bill Eby can't even have his temperature taken without a "Colosseum" camera peering around a corner.

Caught in the act by that "Colosseum" camera are Wanda Thayer and Kathy Campbell as they seem to be more interested in feeding their faces than studying!

Mrs. Fauber performs her daily duties as "tollkeeper" for the lunchline.

After second lunch, Debbie Childress takes up her place in the book store as Elliott Boyd purchases his "Colosseum".

And who doesn't like to eat!

"No better time than lunch time!" agree Judy Yowell, Lynda Clemmer, Patty Gordon, Betty Mooneyham and Carolyn Bartley.

Strenuous but fun physical conditioning aid in achieving life's goal.

Friday is enjoyed by all physical education students as dancing becomes a part of the program.

Uniformity is the key to discipline as Mr. Downey's physical education class stand at attention ready to "count-off."

Activities can vary from ballet to boxing.

Grace and agility mark the performances of modern dance as Margaret Parrish reveals her talent in her physical education class.

Fisticuffs is an ancient art that is appropriately being instructed in the boys physical education department.

Doug Orebaugh and Frankie Doyle get a laugh out of the "sagging" Santa in the person of Gary Long.

"Rumble!!" A group of sophomore phys. ed. students mix it up a little in a friendly game of king-on-the-mountain at the annual Booster Club sponsored P.E. show.

The candid "Colosseum" camera catches two more victims as Richard Boyd and Lou Lawrence make their way to class.

What better way to signify the end of a school day than the last bus to sink slowly into the sunset!!

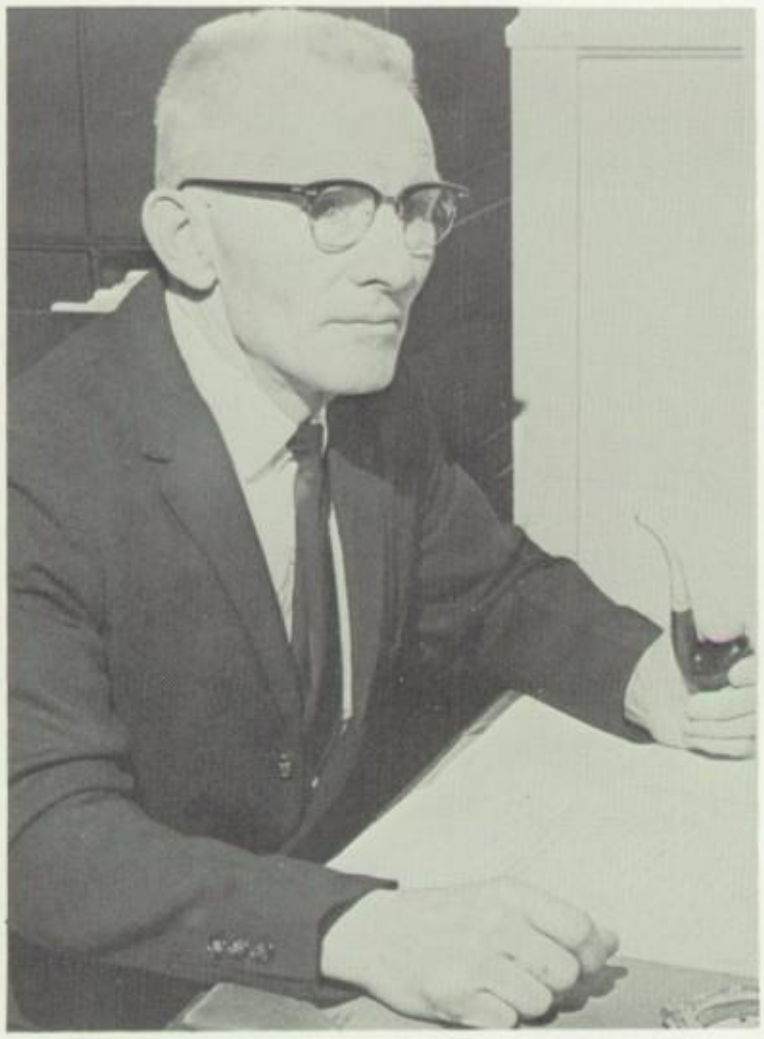
Dimensions in Academics

The Superintendent of Augusta County Schools, Mr. Hugh K. Cassell, M. Ed., Duke University, serves on a rigorous schedule. He still takes time though to become personally involved in his work.

Administrators continue to build

Mr. S. Gordon Stewart, M.A., University of Virginia, serves as Assistant Superintendent of Augusta County Schools. Among his duties is the promotion of new teaching aids in every area of academic and vocational instruction.

General Supervisor Mr. Martin C. Judy, M.A., George Washington University, works mainly with classroom supervision and teaching materials. Mr. Judy also coordinates the music programs of the county schools.



Mr. C. James Harrison, III, B.S., University of Virginia, serves as visiting teacher. His special attention goes to individual students and their problems.

Mr. Herbert Good, M.Ed., University of Virginia, serves as project director and coordinates Title I and Title II funds for Augusta County.

Augusta County educational system.

Mr. Ralph Dutton, B.A., Bridgewater College, directs all school bus activities and serves as the official attendance officer.

Serving as a General Supervisor of Augusta County Schools is Mr. James H. Scott, Jr., M.S., University of Virginia. Among his duties are the supervision of testing programs and the adoption of new textbooks.

Mr. Cecil G. Layman, Jr., Principal

Developing effective school curriculum and supervising teachers characterize Mr. Cecil G. Layman, Jr., principal. A graduate of Davis and Elkins College, Mr. Layman received his M.Ed. from Springfield College where he majored in teacher education.

In addition to his task as a high school administrator, Mr. Layman finds sufficient energy for other scholastic activities. The honor of being president-elect of the Augusta County Education Association has been bestowed on our principal. Because of this honor, Mr. Layman will attend the NEA convention in Dallas, Texas this summer. Mr. Layman attended the National Association of Secondary School Principals this term.

Successful leadership promotes a successful school.

Mr. Layman serves as a friendly advisor to almost everybody as he discusses the senior class project with the class officers, Wanda Thayer, Bill Eby, Gary Long and Gary Shuey.

Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Koogler, and Mrs. Ramsey consult with Mr. Layman on changes that could be made in the cumulative record system for greater efficiency.

Mr. Layman assumes his role of chief administrator as he hands Ronda Reames her diploma at the spring graduation exercises, a duty in which he receives a lot of satisfaction.

Mrs. Coffey checks the processing done by office assistant Wanda Thayer on an IBM computerized attendance card.

Secretarial chores are handled with vigor in R.H.S. Administration.

Mrs. Lee Coffey, School Secretary

If one entered the placid school office, he would find Mrs. Lee Coffey efficiently attending to her duties as secretary.

Her days often prove hectic as she strives to balance the school finances, handle daily correspondence and attendance sheets, administer aid to students, and supervise all office work.

Both students and teachers benefit from Mrs. Coffey's pleasing personality.

Mr. Rudolph H. Hull, assistant principal, has proved to be an active and industrious person. He has been working on his Master's degree at the University of Virginia in school administration. Mr. Hull served as chairman of the Augusta County Teachers United Fund this year. The contributions from local schools soared upward. He also has been co-director of the District 5 basketball tournament.

At Riverheads Mr. Hull has many responsibilities which include directing athletic functions, co-ordinating extra-curricular activities, taking charge of transportation to and from school, supervising maintenance, and issuing and retrieving textbooks.

Mr. Rudolph Hull, Assistant Principal

A variety of

"Who says it's just a desk job?" Mr. Hull proves you have to be a little bit of everything to handle the job of assistant principal as he gives the mower a sweep over the front lawn.

Late arrivals off of a snowbound bus are busily checked off the attendance sheets by Mrs. Coffey. This was a familiar sight during the snowy month of January.

Students, under the vigil of Mr. Hull, make their way daily on the bus which carries them to their morning classes at the Valley Technical School.

A double celebration is in the process as C. B. Harris, Ellen Crummett, Billy Hughes and Terry Miller celebrate their completion of driver training while Mr. Meredith celebrates his ? birthday with a big cake.

responsibilities mark the position of Assistant Principal.

Mr. John B. Meredith, driver training instructor for Augusta County, casts a wary eye as trainee Phillip Carter tests his parking ability in downtown Staunton.

The guidance problems of Riverheads High School are ably handled by this fine staff of counselors, including Mr. Rickard, Mrs. Ramsey, and Mr. Phillips.

Well trained personnel lead R.H.S. students into industrious and productive lives.

Testing programs, class schedules, cumulative records, prospective colleges—all of these compose the department of guidance. Mr. Harry Rickard, Mrs. Mollie Ramsey, and Mr. Clayton Phillips assist and direct students to schedules that may pertain to an individual's goal in life. A choice of colleges for upcoming graduates is another responsibility left to the counselors, who through literature and catalogues allow a student to enter the college of his choice.

Sophomore Jimmy Almarode listens intently as Mr. Rickard checks Jimmy's cumulative record to plan for his academic schedule.

Mrs. Ramsey uses the photocopying machine to duplicate a senior student's transcript that will be sent to a prospective college.

A Library is a place of endless informative entertainment.

Mrs. Augusta C. Patterson
Librarian

The job of a library assistant can be a tedious one but these assistants don't seem to mind as they inspect reference sources.

Facts are where you find them and what better place to look than in the Riverhead's library as Wanda Thayer goes through a news magazine for research information.

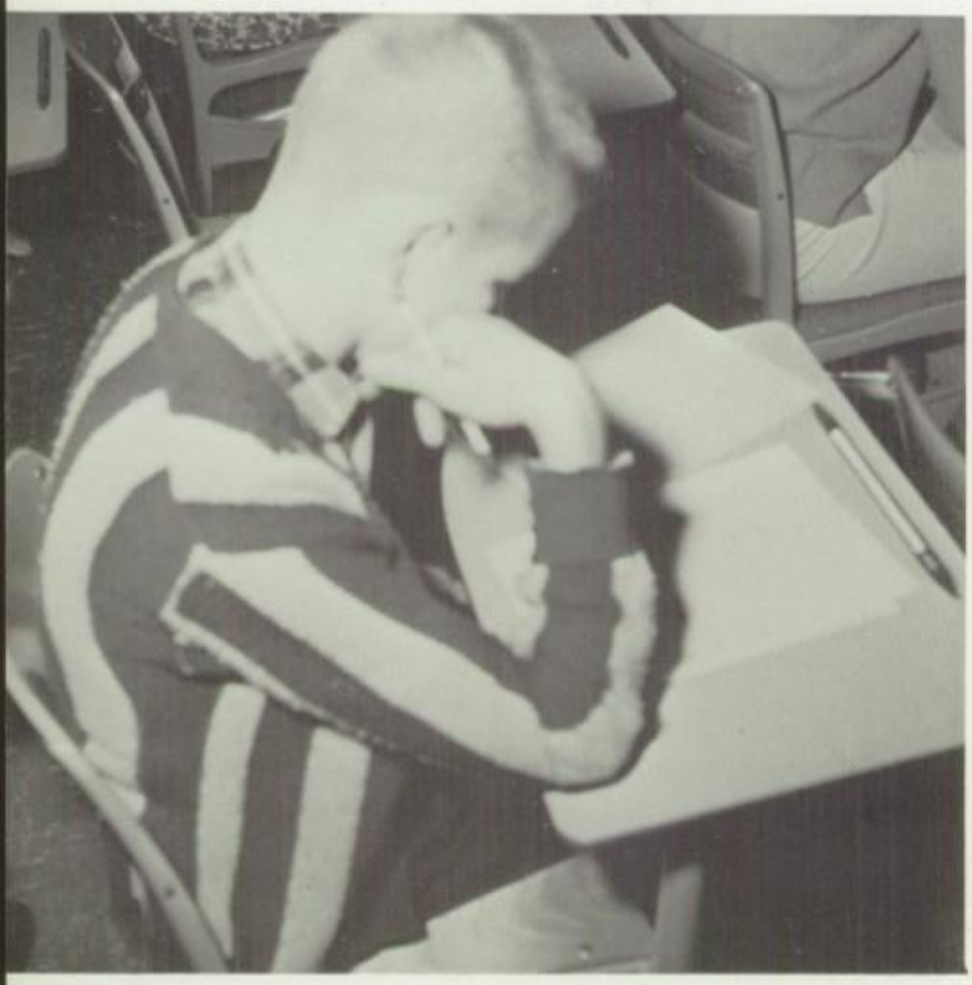
Library time is essential in research as these freshmen under Mrs. Eby's English classes take advantage of every bit of time in writing up their term papers.



The transition from grade school to high school English is quite a jump as Bill Heizer finds out in Mrs. Humphries class.

MISS ELIZABETH D. SNYDER

MRS. MOLLIE H. RAMSEY
Creative English

Arduous English classes make R.H.S. students more efficient in the use of their own language.

Julius Caesar is done pretty realistically, including the corpse of Caesar himself, by members of Mrs. Colonna's English class. Mark Antony, alias Phil Hangar, holds the attention of "fellow Romans" Jerry Schultz, Eugene Patterson, David Desper, Elliot Boyd, Lou Lawrence, Larry Fitzgerald, Karleen Cash, Elaine Fitzgerald, and Diane Reames.

Mrs. Eby gazes over her class while her students review a short story from their literature.

The principles of putting out a newspaper are taught to these Creative English students by the "Shield" sponsor, Mrs. Ramsey.

Reviewing pictures of a locally appearing theater group, Mrs. Shomo makes plans with her Humanities class to take one of their field trips to see the upcoming appearance.

All English students find the library facilities highly useful, especially in compiling facts for term papers, an essential part of English instruction. Here Mary Jones, who is busily doing research for a paper for senior teachers Miss Snyder and Mr. Todd, along with Debbie Humphries and Elaine Fitzgerald under Mrs. Colonna in sophomore English, make good use of their library time.

Varied subjects and the study of unforgettable eras make English classes fascinating.

Steve Lee gives a close inspection of drawings done in the newly instituted Humanities class and is probably giving one of his many "man-of-the-world" opinions.

Miss Snyder makes use of recorded acts of Shakespeare in her senior English class's study of Macbeth. Supplementary materials make regular studies much more interesting for students and easier for teachers.

Lou Lawrence, Mary Tate Patterson, Susan Coffey and Pat Swortzel help Mrs. Prater celebrate her silver anniversary in the teaching profession.

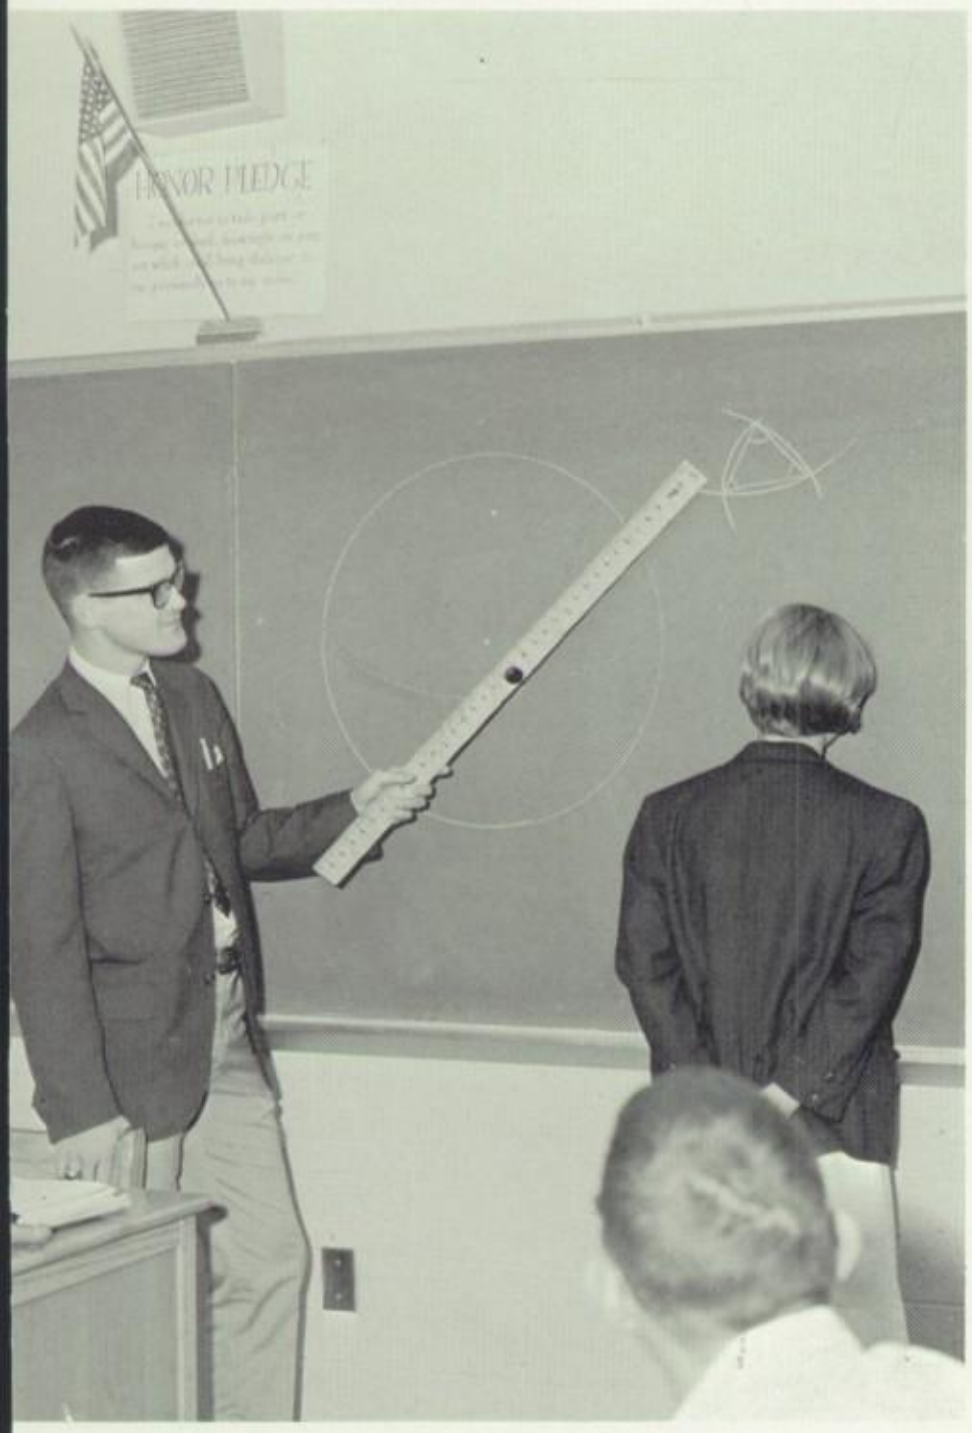
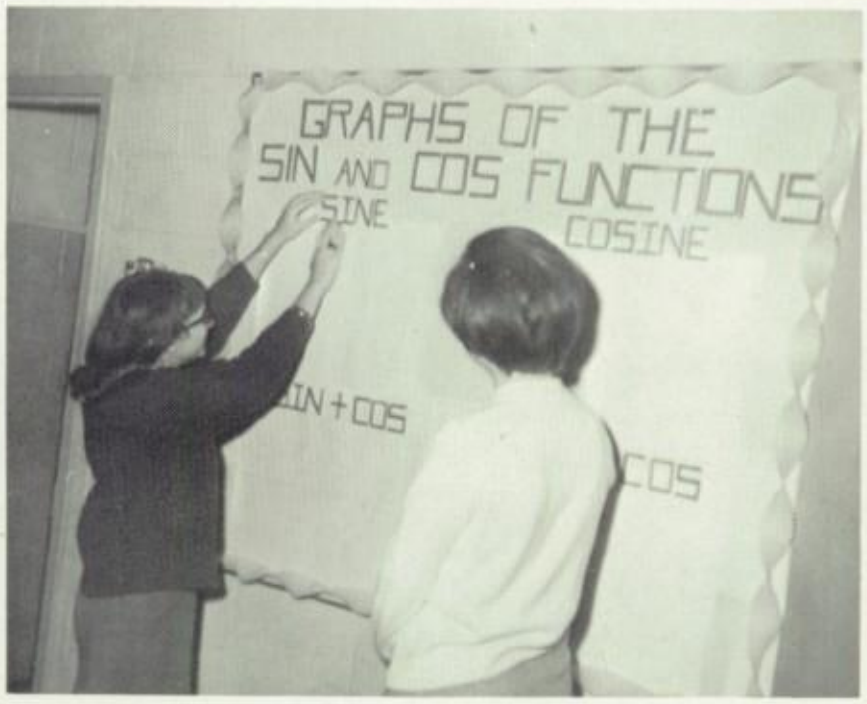
Mr. Wilkerson has an approving look while Teresa McGee works out an interest problem for the class. If the teacher is any indication, she must be doing all right.

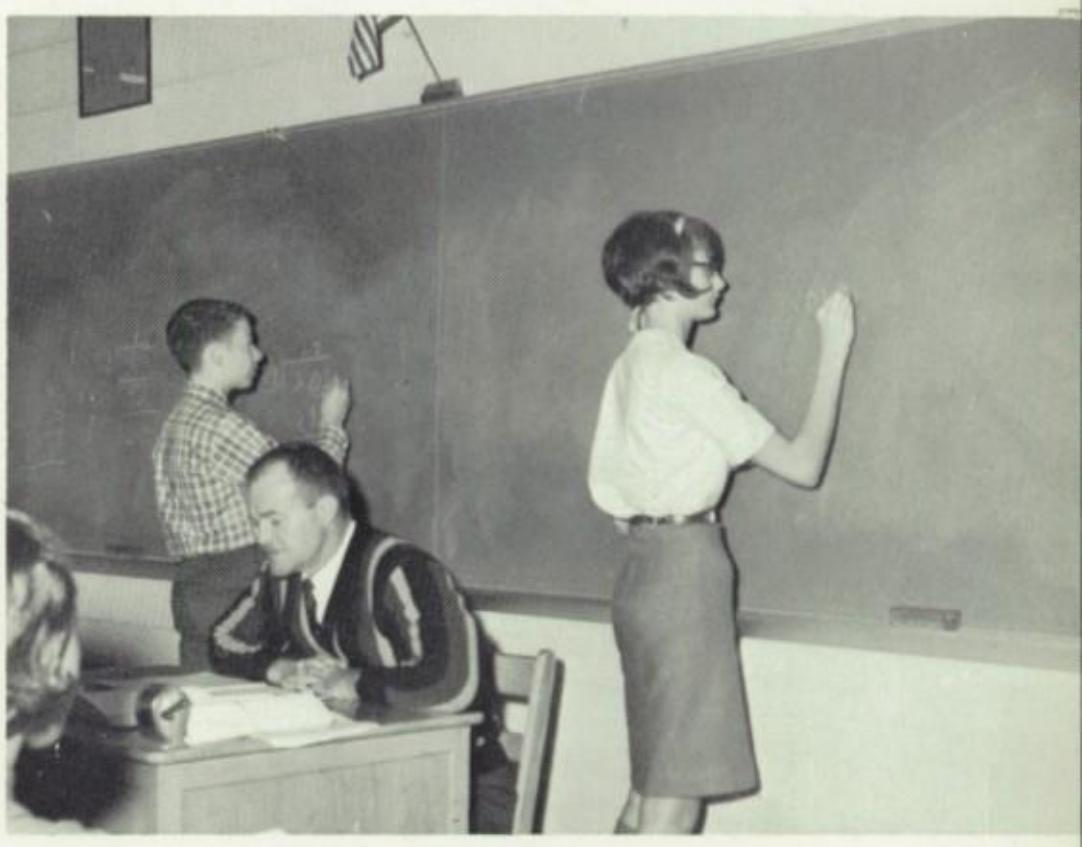


Mr. Hull continues to teach the principles of geometry to his fifth period class while Debbie Humphries does her "stretch" of talking punishment, with her nose in a circle.



Glenda Reed and Linda Earhart make slight alterations in their bulletin board for the "ever-complicated" advanced math.

While Mr. Todd lectures on the basic rules of Math 9, Marvin Berry and Shirley Bradley put their instruction to use at the board.



Science opens many minds to the wonders of today.

In this day of space exploration and heart transplants the study of science plays an important part in each student's life. The eighth grade science is divided into two semesters, biology and chemistry. Eighth graders on an academic schedule and ninth graders on a vocational schedule take science nine which is also divided by semesters into physics and Earth Science. Since the work of each semester is different, grades are given on a semester basis. A failed semester must be repeated in order to receive full credit. The division by semesters gives students a wider knowledge of the sciences.

"Oh, the wonderousness of it all!" as Jimmy Grant, Ricky Cale, Mickey Cash, David Mooneyham, and Jimmy Neese do some scientific "messing around."

Debbie Humphries shows a young admirer her prize-winning science display, dealing with the effects of lighting on frogs, at the Science Fair.

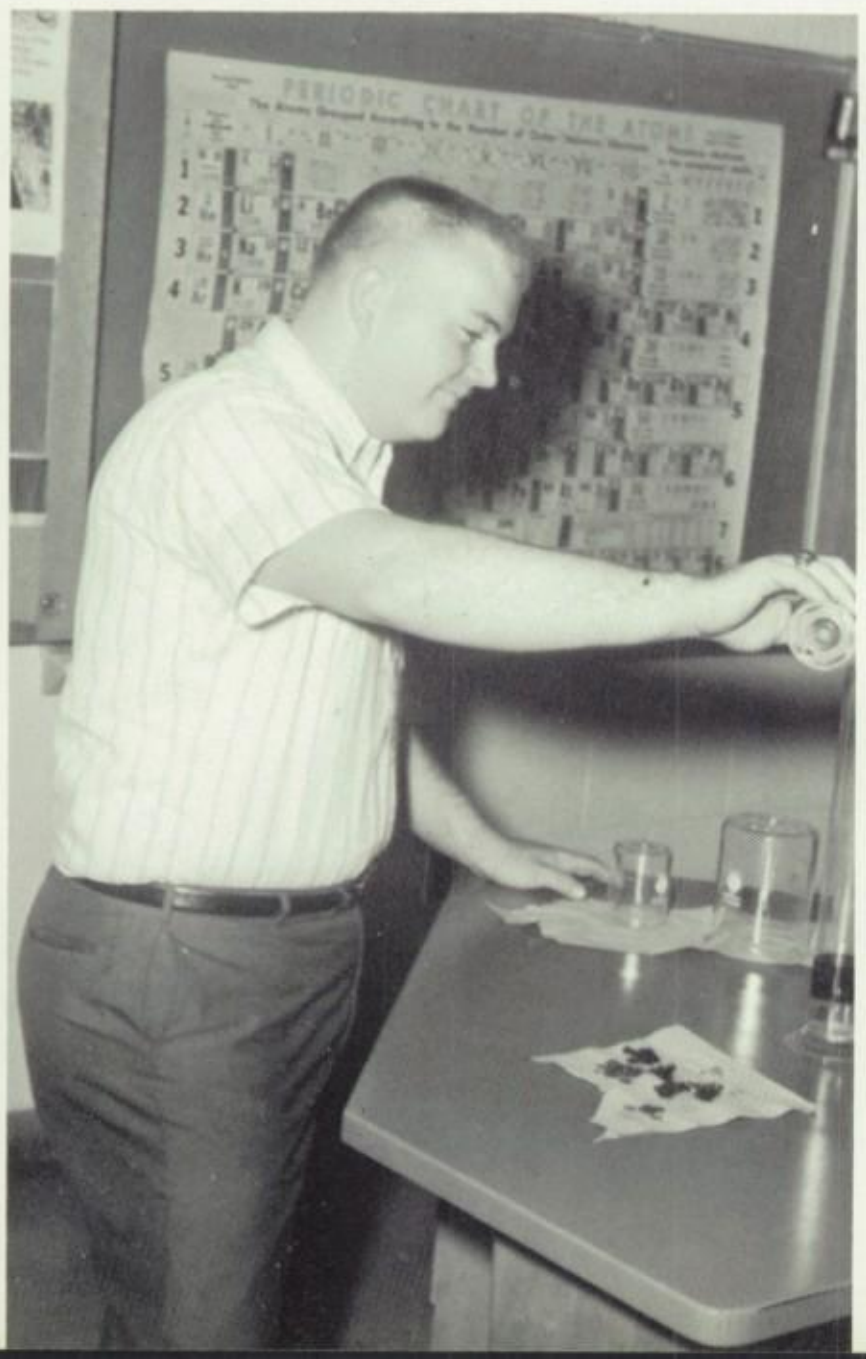
MR. GEORGE FLINT
Chemistry 8, Science 9,
Biology 8

Lab day is felt to be the most interesting in biology as it enables students to take a first hand look into this biological world, as Shelby Smith and Sherry Sorrells discover.

Mr. Flint casts a wary eye as Charlie Smith, David Turner, and Larry Campbell perform some delicate measuring on the balancing scales in Science 8.



The Science classes at R.H.S. have been advanced and made more interesting by the use of new books and frequent individual laboratory experiments. The new science equipment is constantly in use by eager students satisfying the desire for knowledge as well as their curiosity.

Maybe he's smiling for the camera but my guess is that Big John has a little devious plan up his sleeve. Mrs. McDonald had better take a close look at what he's mixing.

Linda Earhart and Lee Ratliff ponder over the complexity of their experimental equipment used in Mrs. McDonald's chemistry class.

Debbie Brooks, Cynthia Crummett and Debbie Hartless are in a major conference over a Science 8 problem issued by Mr. Flint. Of course, it could be a cover for a little gossip gathering.

"Steady now", warns Linda Buchanan a little anxiously as Gwen Kelley pours together some chemicals that may prove a little unhealthy.

Business courses aid the school as well as instruct.

Practicing shorthand that may prove highly useful in the future, Susan Siron types from the book while racing Mrs. Koogler's clock.

Typing is beneficial to a person throughout life as typing I student Joyce Truxell will soon learn.

The Business Department teaches not only such skills as typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand but the correct attitudes and behavior for the business world. Skills are taught to those who hope to enter the business field as a career and to those who wish to use their acquired skills to help them in other fields.

The vocational courses which are taught include typewriting I and II, bookkeeping and shorthand. The consumer courses taught are general business, bookkeeping, economics and personal use typewriting.

In social problems Mr. Rickard encourages students to keep posted on all world events. Here Ted Lawhorn really keeps up with "world affairs" by reading an issue of the "Shield", the R.H.S. school newspaper.

Mr. Tate lectures astutely from his text to his social studies class while William Earhart spends his class period under the "dunce cap."

World geography can bring the explorer out of anybody as Mr. Downey teaches the principles of a geographic grid to Tommy Conner, Kathy Cook, Steve Koogler and Judy Swink.

Riverheads encourages exposing its students to the fine arts.

You have to start somewhere so these eighth graders work today in the Prep Band in preparation for next year and a place on the Riverheads Gladiator Varsity Band.

Mrs. Colonna directs while her advanced choral class sings out in their morning class. These practice sessions can be strenuous but rewarding to performances.

Busily preparing for the annual Christmas concert, the combined band and choral departments rehearse traditional holiday melodies.

Nicki Rennie models a hand-crafted hat made in the art department. Behind her are water-color paintings on display.

Students working together in order to develop individual talents is the main order in the art classes of R.H.S. New and different art skills are taught to the young artists as well as lecture classes. Colors, sculpture, painting, constrictions and pen and ink are among the skills taught, while lecture classes include slides, visits to art mobiles, and the history of art. With the beginning of the year came the basic forms bottle, bulb, and a pair of scissors from which anything can be drawn.

The six weeks period is divided so the students may spend two weeks on any desired art skill but four weeks must be spent on required work. Work is done while students listen to both classical and modern music. Sketches are done indoors and outdoors.

Vocational classes offer training for a student's future.

The practical arts classes at R.H.S. are designed to educate students in the basic problems of life which they will meet. The home economics department instructs girls in meal planning, child care, sewing and home management. Each year the class presents more intricate problems to be solved. For boys there are courses in industrial arts, mechanical drawing, and vocational agriculture.

Cooking is of the greatest importance in the lives of future homemakers as evidenced by the meal prepared by Carolyn Fitzgerald, Charlene Groah, Carolyn Moneymaker, Linda Grant, Sherry Berry, and Lilly Cash.

Bill Smith appears to be working industriously in mechanical drawing, possibly planning an invention of the future.

Vocational Agriculture

Industrial arts students are instructed in drawing, woodwork, metalwork, electricity and the proper way to combine these skills. Mechanical drawing teaches basic engineering elements. Problems of a complex vocation of today, farming, are illustrated, experienced and solved by the agriculture students. The practical arts classes emphasize the importance of individual ideas and skills. Student cooperation is emphasized. The importance of working and sharing together is shown. These classes educate students in the basic problems of life.

Concentrating on doing a good job on her dress, Pam Nulty steadily sews for a home economics grade on a dress she will probably wear herself.

The skills of industrial arts are exemplified by the use of the woodworking lathe. Roger Lilly, Byron Ransom and Richard Cale go together in learning the principles of the machine.

MISS LANA McCLOUD

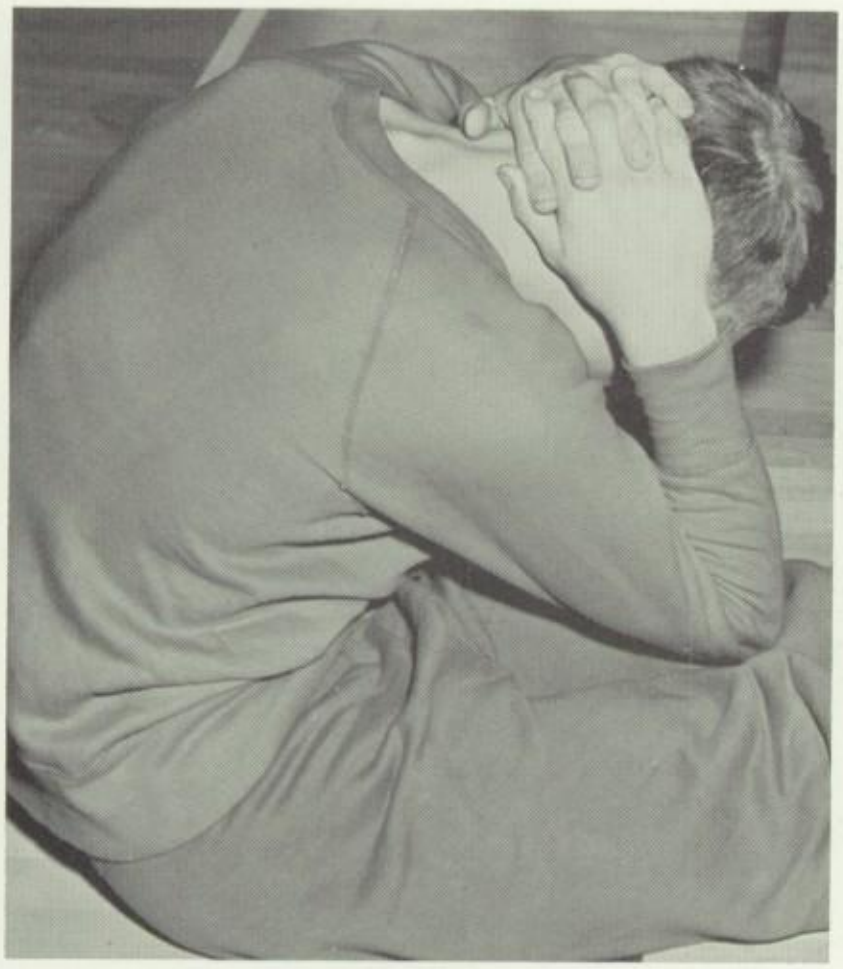
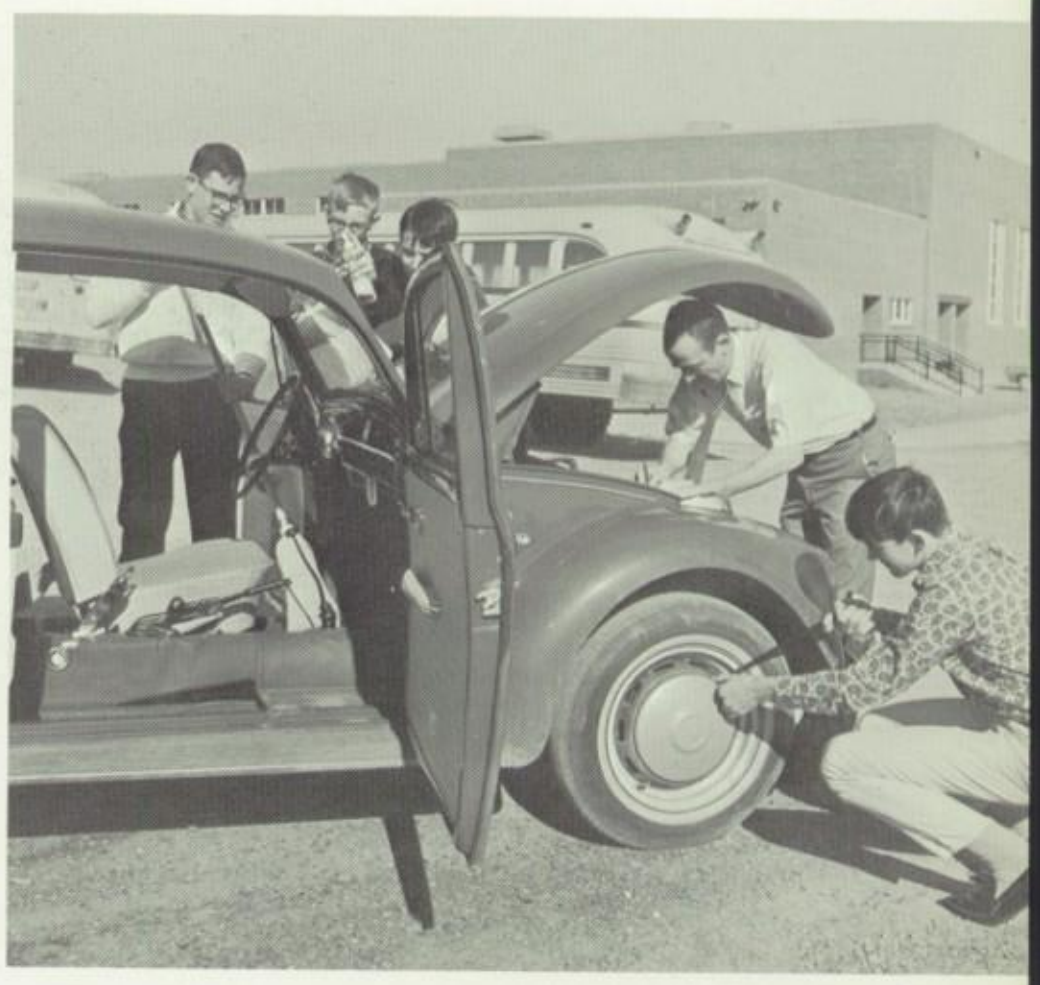
MR. J. HUNTER TALBOTT
Boys Physical Education

Physical and mental conditioning are the goals of R.H.S. physical education.

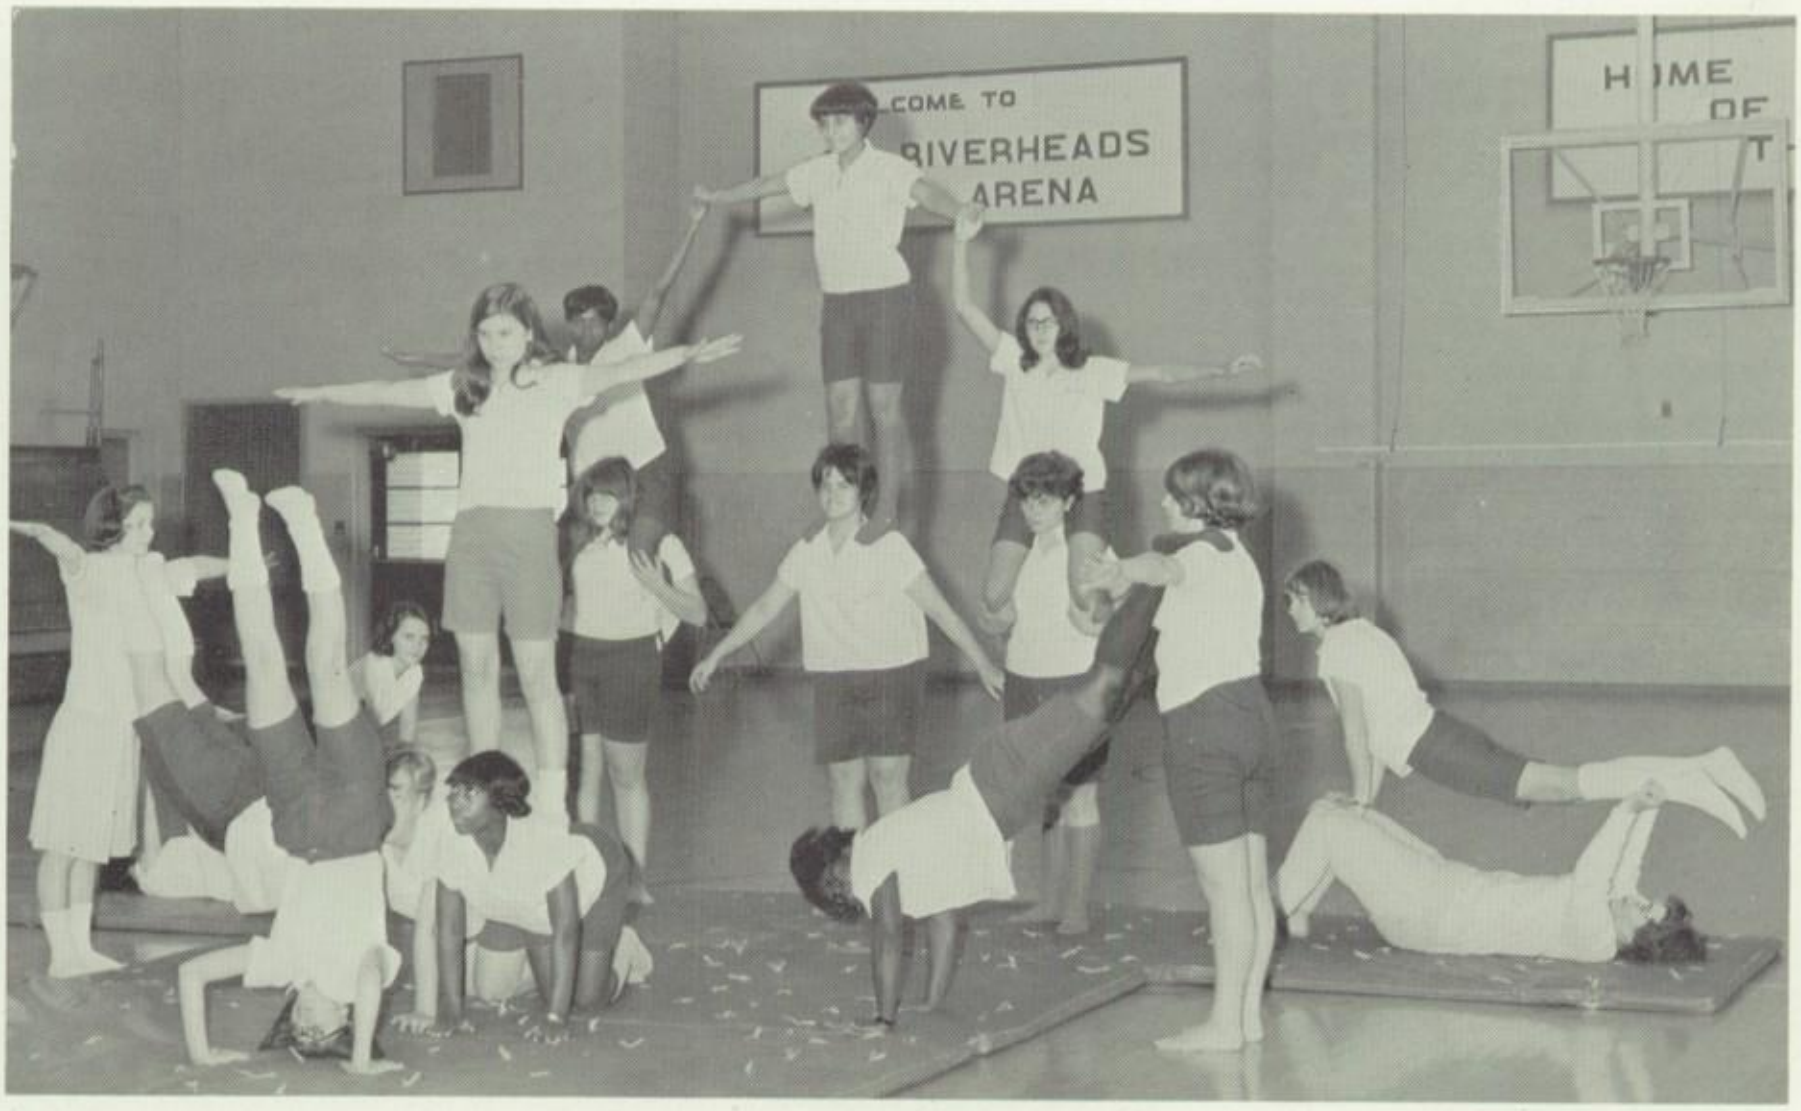
Up, up and away goes Elaine Fitzgerald as she scissors her way across the high jump.



Straining to touch his elbows to his knees, an eighth-grade phys. ed. student participates in a classic calisthenic . . . a sit-up.



A complete checkup is given by Coach Hunter Talbott's "garage crew" as Danny Hearn, Gary Matheny, David Kimble, the chief mechanic himself, and Glenn Link "work her over".



A gymnastic exercise is performed by second period girls physical education class. Just think how much effort was used to get this picture taken!

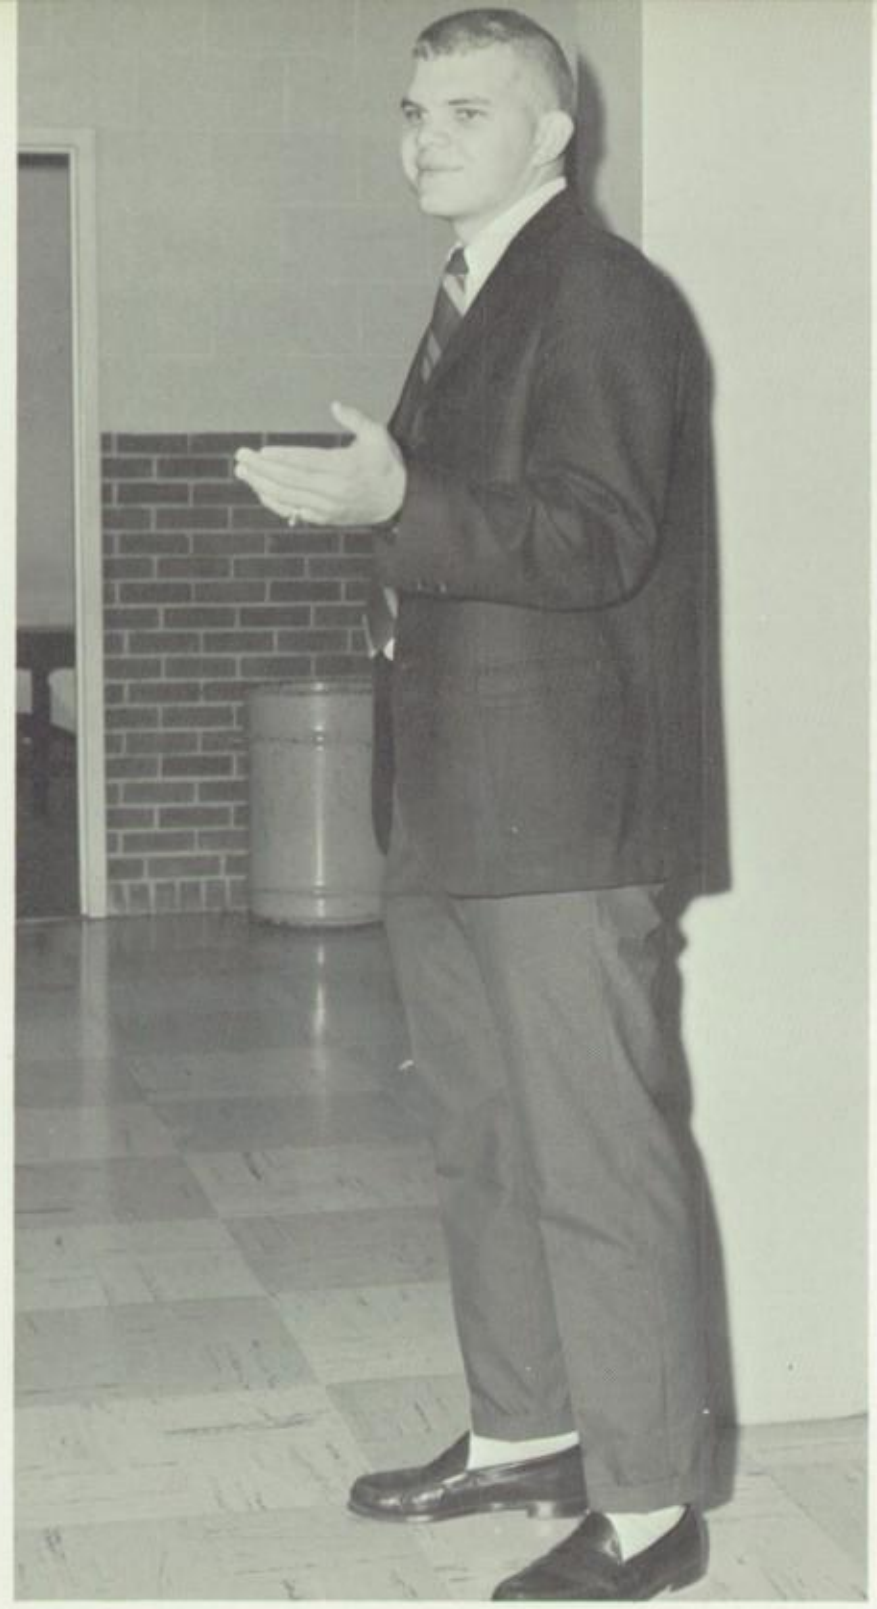
The S.C.A. represents leadership and responsibility among the student body.

A major S.C.A. project of the school year was a canned food drive for the Salvation Army. President George Earhart donated a monetary contribution as Kevin Barger, Patti Ballew, Susan Coffey, Kathy Cash, and Debbie Humphries appear awed at George's unusual generosity.



To the delight of teachers, this faculty tea was presented by the S.C.A. for hard-working instructors, a few days before the opening of the 1967-68 Riverheads school year.

S.C.A. president George Earhart goes about his duties of conducting the regular S.C.A. meeting and taking charge of all student council business.

Although she might look to be a little confused, Mrs. Flint actually is in charge of this S.C.A. meeting.

"A work of art, isn't it?" asks Rodger Swisher as Patti Ballew and George Earhart agree. The three work meticulously on the float for homecoming ceremonies, sponsored by the Student Cooperative Association.

The Honor Society—the cream of the academic crop.

All juniors and seniors who are in the National Honor Society must maintain a B average in order to remain in the Society. Meetings are held once a month on school time. Members of the Honor Society participated in Klassroom Kwiz at different times during the year. Projects undertaken by the Honor Society were a Fine Arts Day, sending and hosting exchange students, and cooperating with the Salvation Army and S.C.A. in providing articles for needy children from this area.

Mr. Rickard, the Honor Society sponsor, supervised the issuing of membership cards to new members Bonnie Steele and Alice Coyner.

Heading Riverheads group of future educators and instructors are Glenda Reed, president; Lilly Cash, vice president; Carolyn Fitzgerald, secretary; and Linda Earhart, treasurer.

The Future Teachers of RHS observed National Education Week by honoring the teachers. Each member relieved a specific teacher from his duties in the classroom, thus enabling him to have a free period. During American Education Week members of the FTA went to the feeder schools and contributed their talents there.

Lilly Cash, Glenda Reed, and Linda Earhart attended the FTA Convention in Richmond.

Questionnaires were sent to past RHS graduates inquiring about their lives since graduation. This was done mainly to compute how many have continued their education or have engaged in some type of business.

A point system was inaugurated by the future teachers. Under this system, if a member earns sufficient points, he may receive a pin, a guard, or a letter.

Appreciation can be a key to an individual's musical talents.

Mrs. Betty Colonna and her choral group were invited to sing for the Evangelical United Brethren Church at McKinley and the Cosmopolitan Club of Tinkling Springs, Virginia. They also performed for the Greenville and Spottswood Parent-Teacher Associations.

The Spring Festival was presented in May and preceded by the Community Concert.

Five members of the choral department attended the Regional Chorus. Also the choral participated in the District Choral Festival held at Buffalo Gap High School.

The Riverheads Band has participated in several parades, including the Waynesboro V.F.W. Parade and both the Christmas Parades of Staunton and Lexington.

Under the leadership of Mr. Bing Elliott, the band received second place in the V.F.W. entry in Waynesboro, and captured first place in the Lexington Christmas Parade.

Among the other activities performed by the R.H.S. Band have included tag days in which the members solicited for money contributions in Staunton, the Christmas Concert, and a performance held on behalf of the Booster Club.

The Regional Band was held in Waynesboro during the month of February. It was followed by the District Festival.

Several band members attended the Solo and Ensemble Festival at Amherst, Virginia. The band year was concluded with the Spring Festival in May.

Excitement is provided to R.H.S. gridiron fans.

The gridiron season at Riverheads was one that had its ups and downs. The Gladiators chalked up a 3 - 7 overall mark and a 1 - 7 District 5 mark. It was simply a case of not being able to jell as the Gladiators were hurt in many places by injuries and inexperience.

The Gladiators opened their season by being soundly thumped by the Group 1B Lexington Hurricanes, 44 - 7. The Riverheads grid squad started district action on a sweet note by beating Alleghany, 7 - 6, in a bruising defensive battle. The following week the Rockbridge Rebels shut out the Gladiators 6 - 0 in a battle of "country cousins." The Gladiators traveled to Wilson for their next contest. Riverheads was beaten decisively, 27 - 7, by their district archrivals. Getting back on the winning track, Riverheads edged by the Cardinals of V.S.D. in a home contest.

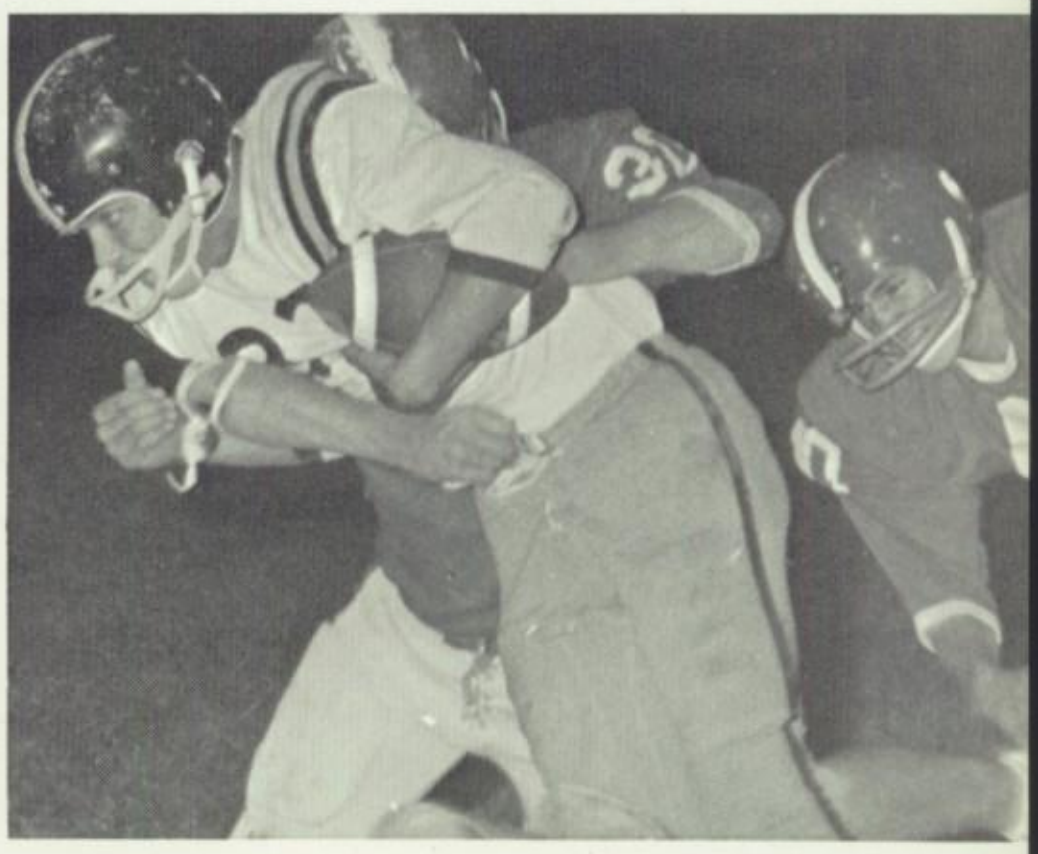
The second half of the gridiron season at Riverheads started with the Gladiators taking on the James River Knights in their annual Homecoming contest. In a pouring rain, the Gladiators fell to the score of 33 - 0. District 5 king pins, Clifton Forge, whipped the Gladiators 42 - 0. Holding the Mountaineers to 14 - 0 in the first half, the Gladiators lost three key personnel in the third quarter of the loss. County rival Buffalo Gap edged the Riverheads eleven in a real free-for-all, 25 - 20 at the Bison's homecoming. The Gladiators ended a three game losing streak by soundly beating the Valley Hornets, 20 - 7, in their finest offensive ballgame of the year. The season finale came at home against Ft. Defiance. The Indians outclassed the Gladiators in defeating them 31 - 0.

Assistant Coach Ron Wilkerson assumes the role of team trainer as he tapes up guard George Earhart, while Wayne Mizer does some tapework of his own.



Buffalo Gap running back Steve Huffer is brought down grudgingly by linebacker Robert Hundley as Gladiator Charlie Ayres knifes in the help out.

Gladiators grid squad

Caught in a squeeze is the situation confronting Rockbridge end Wayne Huffman as Gladiators Conrad Lawrence and Glenn Conner put on the pinch.

Receiver Wayne Mizer is brought down by an unidentified Ft. Defiance tackler after an eight - yard gain. Riverheads was eventually overwhelmed by the Indians.

Perfection in teamwork is evident as tailback Eldon Almarode receives a pitchout from quarterback Conrad Lawrence while fullback Robert Hundley and guard Donald Swisher lead interference against the Alleghany Colts.

chalk up a 3-7 record in a long, hard, season.

Individual season standouts were junior defensive halfback Charlie Ayres as he was named on the honorable mention All-District team. Leading the team in scoring was quarterback and place - kicker Bill Eby with 32 points.

Charlie Ayres takes in a clutch TD pass as Alleghany's Steve Crawford attempts to defend. The Gladiators chalked up the win by a 7 - 6 margin.

"Come on ball . . ., get back here!" Charlie Ayres and Bill Eby scrap with Glenn Crissman (31) of Ft. Defiance over a loose ball while Crissman's teammate Steve Shreckhise (35) and a lot of Riverheads fans look and wonder.

The 1967-68 edition of the Gladiator varsity basketball team did not experience the most rewarding season in the world. But the charges of Coach Ken Downey did prove to be a highly exciting team to watch as they often displayed signs of fast-paced action and color.

The season started on a sour note as the Valley Hornets of District O handed the Gladiators a 74-61 setback. Riverheads then proceeded to drop their next four District V games to Alleghany, Fort Defiance, Rockbridge and Buffalo Gap. Victory number one came over the Wildcats of Millboro (also of District O) as the Gladiators rolled to an easy 58-37 win. The Gladiators then dropped a 65-63 squeaker to the Hornets of Wilson Memorial and lost their next two games to James River, Clifton Forge and Fort Defiance as well.

The battle of the boards is an important but rough phase of basketball as Lee Ratliff controls this rebound from Buffalo Gap's Jim Mycum, while teammates and referee alike anticipate the action.

the future as this fine showing.

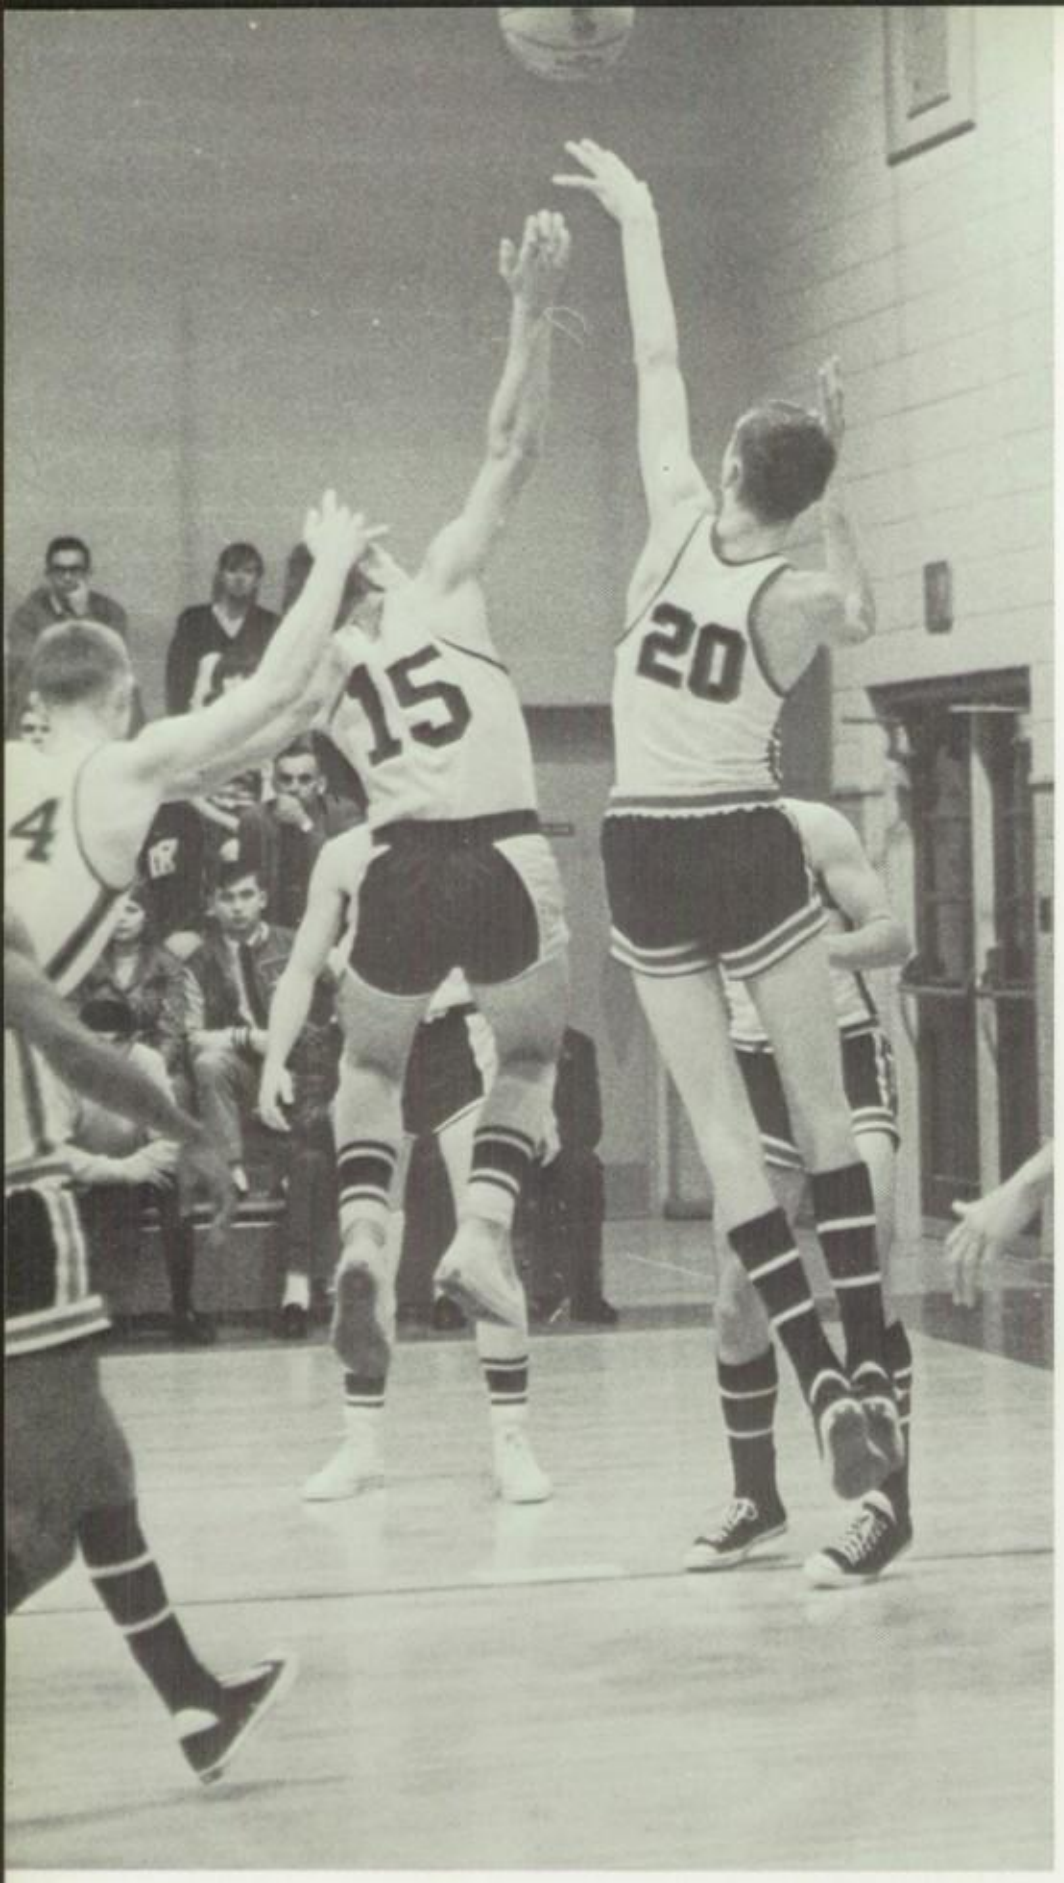
Riverheads then avenged their loss to Wilson by beating the Green Hornets at home. 68–55. Keeping their winning streak alive, the Gladiators overran both Valley and Millboro in return contests by scores of 67–59 and 63–47. Riverheads ended the season in a slump losing their final five contests, all district encounters.

Due to a last place tie in District V, Riverheads and Wilson, with one district win apiece, met in a playoff at Fort Defiance to determine who would earn the final berth in the District V tournament at VMI in Lexington. Playing their finest game of the year, the Gladiators won the game, 59–52, to earn the berth.

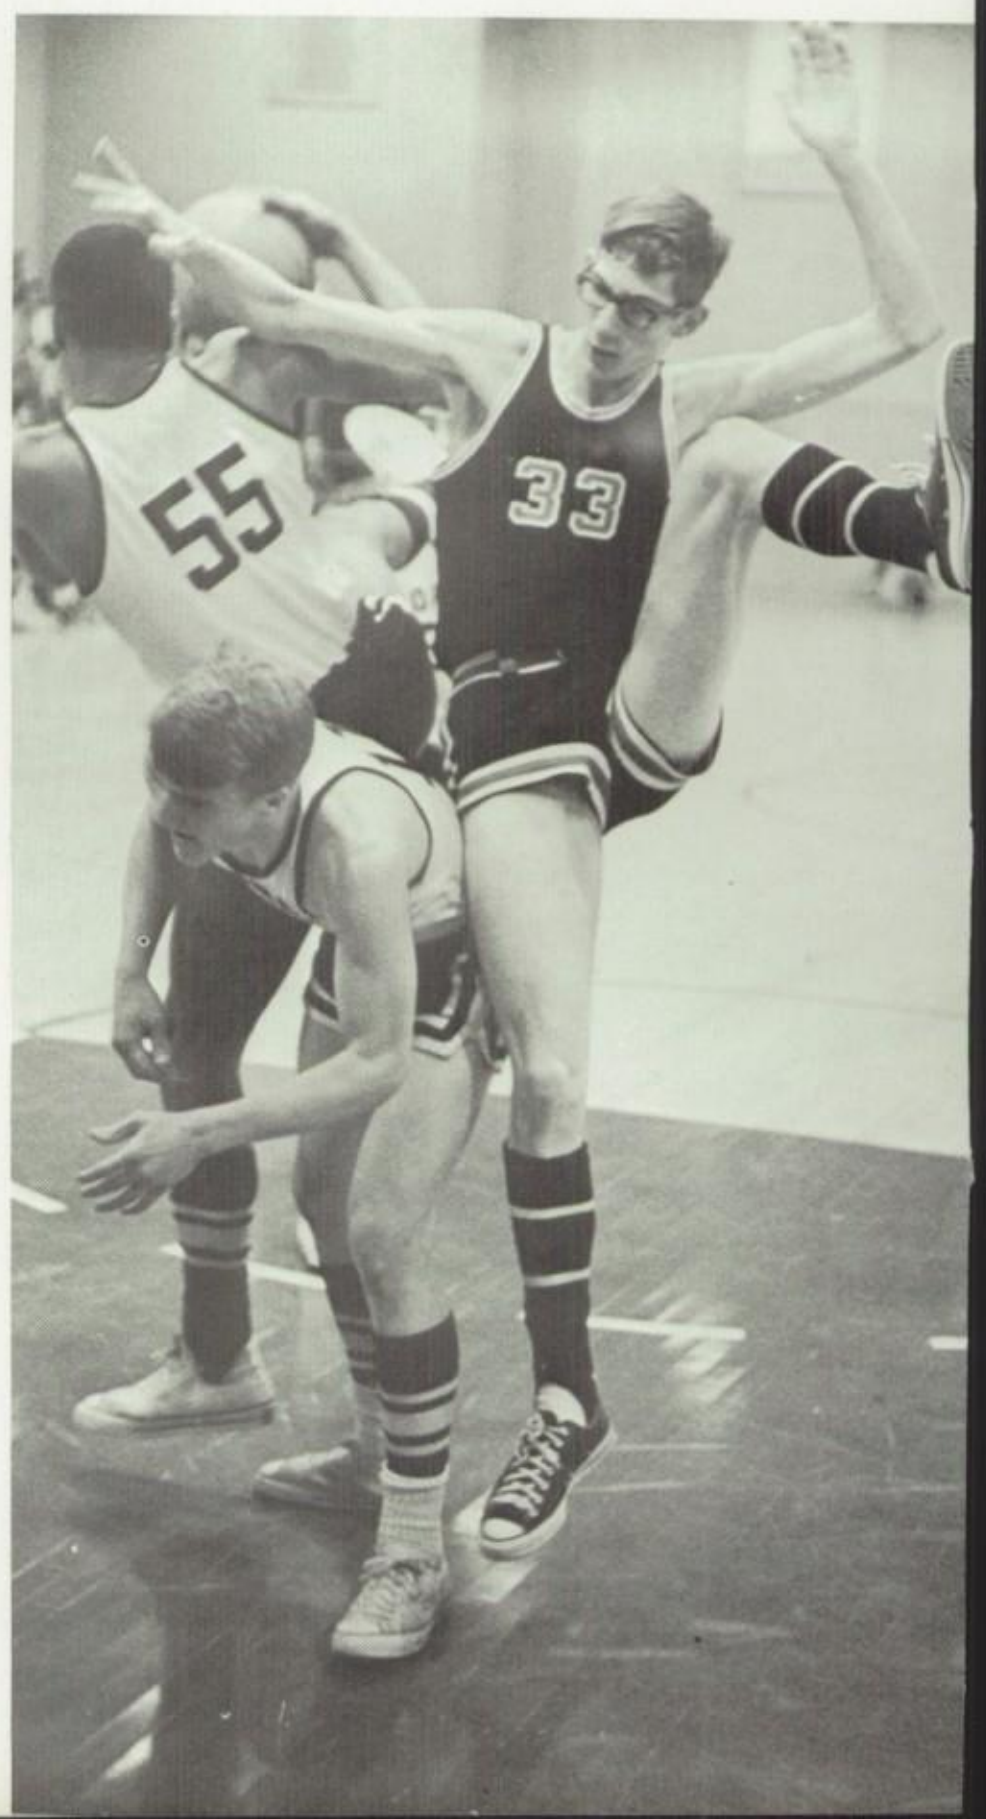
With nobody up there with him, Lee Ratliff pops an easy jumper for two points against Millboro, The Gladiators went on to win their first game of the season, beating the Wildcats, 58-37.

Determination gets the Big Red into the tournament.

In tournament action the Gladiators, seeded number seven, were eliminated on opening night by number two James River. But the Knights were given a real scare before winning with 16 seconds remaining in the game, 41-38. Highlighting the tournament was the selection of Riverheads leading scorer Tommy Lawhorn (18.6 ppg) to the all-tournament and all-district teams.



Gladiator forward Tommy Lawhorn blocks a field goal attempt by Buffalo Gap's Galen Kiser while Riverheads teammates Conrad Lawrence (14) and Anthony Smith (10) move in to help out.



A ballerina he isn't! Buck Bates comes down to earth after jumping against Wilson's Danny Rose (55) for a rebound. Results of this action were Rose got the ball, Bates got an armload of empty space, while Wilson's Don Cullen seems to have gotten the worst of everything.

Despite the defense of center Lee Ratliff, James River's David Hammond gets his shot off in a duel between the "big men" of both teams.

Individual standouts mark track season.

Varsity track took the spotlight last spring as the Gladiator cindermen, under Coach Richard Wilfong, took on a rugged schedule. Although they won no meets, there were bright spots in the mile and pole vault, where Tommy Sweet and Wayne Mizer set new district records in their respective events to take high honors.

This fall the cross-country team, coached by Mr. Larry Hull, came on with a bang forming a 5 - 1 record, placing second in the district meet and placing ninth in the state meet. Again Tommy Sweet and junior David Law were standouts while Eddie Buchanan, Philip Hanger, and Dale Doyle were consistently high finishers.

With an anguished look of effort, junior miler Tommy Sweet places first in his specialty at the District 5 Track Meet, held at Washington and Lee.

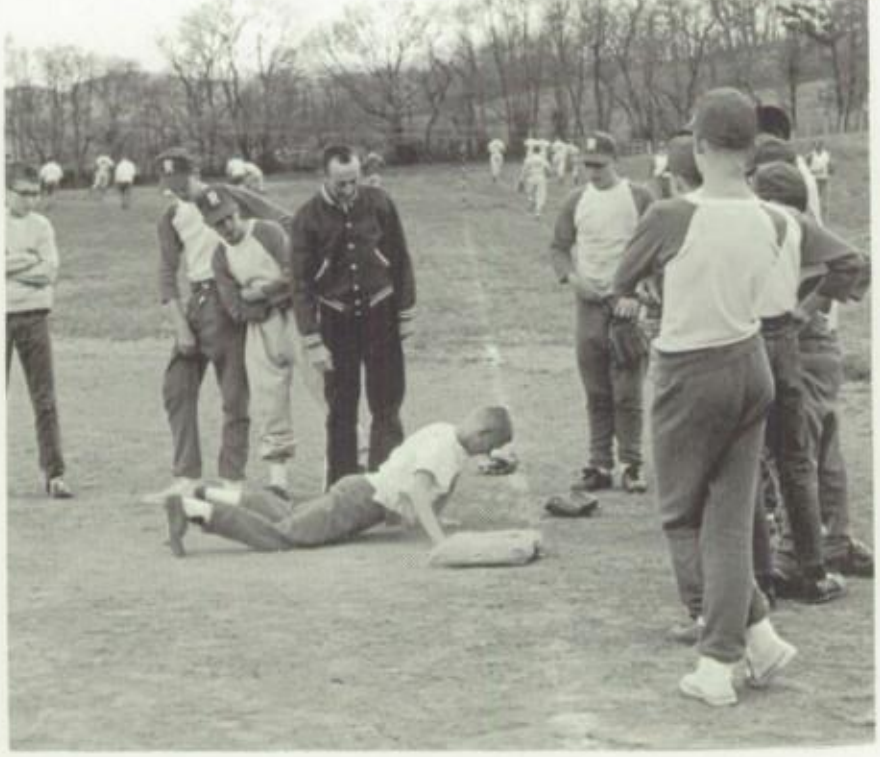
Gladiators Compile Best Mark in R.H.S. History



Recording a slate of 9 wins and 5 losses, the Riverheads baseball contingent, under the direction of Coach J. Hunter Talbott, developed into the finest team to take the R. H. S. field. Among the wins, were victories over Group 1A schools Lexington (5-3) and Waynesboro (8-1). The captains for the 1967 season were seniors Donnie Harlow and Grady Swink. Leading the batting statistics were Harlow with a .512 batting average (besides compiling a 7-3 pitching record) and junior George Earhart, batting .486.

Under the guidance of a new member of the basketball coaching staff, Mr. Larry Hull, the jayvees started with a bang by winning seven of their first ten ballgames, including a 40-37 upset of a much stronger Alleghany contingent. After a mild slump the Baby Gladiators came back to beat Ft. Defiance and Wilson, two teams who had handed the jayvees resounding defeats. After a narrow 46-44 win over the jayvees of Millboro, the Baby Reds unfortunately dropped their last five games by relatively close margins, to finish up with a respectable 10-9 mark.

The eighth-grade basketball team overcame a lack of size with a lot of speed, highlighted their seasons with wins over Buffalo Gap and Wilson. The charges of Coach Jim Digges dropped their other four contests, but a lot of talent may be seen on the varsity squad in just a few years.
